Harish Rao slams Revanth Reddy over abusive remarks against KCR

Siddipet : Former Minister T Harish Rao condemned Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy's abusive language against former Chief Minister K Chandrashekhar Rao in public meetings.

Speaking to news reporters after his visit to an urban residential school on Thursday, Rao questioned Revanth on what kind of example he wanted to set for the younger generation with such a language. Hailing Chandrashekhar Rao as a crusader, who led Telangana movement from the front, Harish Rao took a serious objection to the language Revanth used against a fatherly figure like the former Chief Minister.

He accused Revanth of failing to supply cosmetic charges, mess bills and other benefits to welfare hostels in the State despite the Chief Minister being the Education Minister.

He distributed blankets to the inmates of the hostel at his own expense and inspected the quality of rice, eggs and other food items being served to the students. Rao also interacted with the students to know their issues. He then had lunch with the inmates to check the quality and taste.

Later, the former Minister felicitated Peddalingareddy Pally Sarpanch Battu Bhaskar Reddy and ward members. Speaking on the occasion, he said that the Congress had ignored the interests of the farming fraternity.

Gig workers join nationwide protest

(Capital Information)

Hyderabad : The Telangana Gig and Platform Workers union (TGPWU) and the Indian Federation of App-Based Transport Workers (IFAT) on Thursday joined the nationwide protest in support of their demands for fair wages, safe working conditions, social security and other rights.

In Hyderabad, flash rallies were conducted in different places. Approximately 40,000 delivery workers from major platforms participated in the flash strike, protesting unsafe working conditions, unfair pay, algorithmic control, ID blocking, and denial of dignity and social security, TGPWU founder-president Shaik Salauddin said in a statement.

The strike had a significant nationwide impact as orders were delayed or disrupted across multiple cities and stores. Platform companies attempted to break the strike by deploying third-party delivery companies such as Shadowfax and Rapido. Aggregators offered extra incentive pay and temporarily reactivated inactive IDs to manage operations, he said.

However, the flash strike demonstrated the unity and resistance of delivery workers across India against exploitative platform practices, he added.

CM's contradictory assertions over River Krishna water claims exposed, draws criticism

(Capital Information)

Hyderabad : Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy's poor knowledge over the irrigation sector, especially on River Krishna water sharing got exposed yet again. His contradictory assertions over Telangana's share in the River Krishna waters are drawing severe criticism from different sections.

Interestingly, the Chief Minister contradicts his own statements and assertions over the State's share in the river waters.

In June this year, the Chief Minister had demanded his counterpart from Andhra Pradesh N Chandrababu Naidu to issue NOC for using 1000 tmcft in River Godavari and 500 tmcft in River Krishna.

These demands had triggered a strong criticism from the former Irrigation Minister T Harish Rao and slammed the Congress government for its negligence in protecting Telangana's share.

"Telangana already has hydrological clearances from Central Water Commission for using 946 tmcft in River Godavari for projects in the State," Harish Rao pointed out, exposing the Chief Minister's poor command over the irrigation sector.

Similarly, on September 13, the Chief Minister made another assertion of 904 tmcft share in River Krishna for Telangana. Contradicting his own assertion on September 24, the Chief Minister again claimed Telangana's share of 763 tmcft in River Krishna water.

Continuing his inconsistent stand over the river water share, the Chief Minister this month made a new demand before the Brijesh Kumar Tribunal to allot 951 tmcft in River Krishna basin.

The BRS working president KT Rama Rao has been highlighting these inconsistencies, particularly the Chief Minister's contradictory stand on River Krishna water shares.

"Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy has zero knowledge of river waters impacting Telangana's share and interests. He continues to remain dangerously ignorant in irrigation issues," Rama Rao said while addressing party workers in Nalgonda on Tuesday.

Like the strong counters from the BRS, people from different sections are also criticizing the Chief Minister for his "command" over the irrigation sector and river water shares.

Sharing the news reports clippings of contradictory statements made by Revanth Reddy on X, Nayini Anurag Reddy, an entrepreneur asked "Every time the Chief Minister speaks, there's a new number. If they themselves don't know what they are asking for, who do you expect to take us seriously?,"

"And in all this confusion, it's not them who lose. It's the people of Telangana," he stressed.

Asking Farmers to Use Mobile App for Urea is Absurd: Senior Leader Porika Govind Naik

(Capital Information)

Mulugu : Senior district leader Mr. Porika Govind Naik alleged that the agricultural sector has deteriorated ever since the Congress government came to power, resulting in increased hardships for farmers.

He was speaking at a party workers' meeting held under the chairmanship of Mallampally Mandal President Mr. Palepu Srinivas. Addressing the gathering, Mr. Govind Naik criticised the government's decision to make it mandatory for farmers to use a mobile application to pre-book urea, stating that such a move is unrealistic and laughable. He questioned how farmers from rural areas—many of whom are either illiterate or do not possess smartphones—could be expected to operate mobile apps to access fertilisers.

"Farming has become a fearful activity under the Congress regime. Most farmers live in villages and cannot afford or operate Android smartphones. The government must answer how such farmers are supposed to use a urea booking app," he said, directly questioning the Revanth Reddy-led government.

He further stated that after the Congress came to power, farmers are once again being forced to stand in long queues day and night for urea, a situation reminiscent of 15 years ago. He accused the government of displaying hypocritical concern for farmers while failing to ensure timely fertiliser supply.

Mr. Govind Naik demanded clarity on how many times Rythu Bandhu assistance has been extended in the last two years and how many farmers have actually benefited from complete ₹2 lakh loan waivers and bonus payments.

He also alleged that the Congress government has shown negligence towards irrigation projects, questioning whether even a single irrigation project has been completed in the last two years.

Recalling the previous BRS government under former Chief Minister K. Chandrashekar Rao, he said several irrigation projects were completed with the objective of providing sufficient water for two crops. He highlighted the Kaleshwaram Lift Irrigation Project, along with multiple reservoirs and canal networks, which ensured water supply to tanks across the state and transformed agriculture into a festive activity, making farmers prosperous.

Demanding immediate action, Mr. Govind Naik urged the government to withdraw the urea mobile app and revert to the earlier distribution system followed by the previous government. Speaking as a representative of the principal opposition party, he warned that if the government fails to respond, the party will launch agitations in support of farmers and stand firmly by their side in the days to come.

Noting that December 25 also marks the birth anniversary of Maharaja Bijli Pasi ji, Modi highlighted that the famous Bijli Pasi fort of Lucknow is not far from here and emphasized that Maharaja Bijli Pasi left behind a legacy of valor, good governance, and inclusiveness, which the Pasi community has carried forward with pride. He noted the coincidence that it was Atal ji who, in the year 2000, issued a postage stamp in honor of Maharaja Bijli Pasi. He paid respectful homage, offering salutations to Mahamana Malaviya ji, Atal ji, and Maharaja Bijli Pasi. Modi remarked that a short while ago he had the privilege of inaugurating the Rashtra Prerna Sthal, which symbolizes the vision that showed India the path of self-respect, unity, and service.

New Delhi (PIB) : The Vice President of India, C. P. Radhakrishnan, today released "Mahamana Vangmay", the final series of the collected works of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, at Bharat Mandapam, New Delhi. Addressing the gathering, the Vice President described Mahamana Malaviya as a towering nationalist, journalist, social reformer, lawyer, statesman, educationist, and a distinguished scholar of ancient Indian culture. He said Pandit Malaviya was a rare visionary who firmly believed that India's future lay not in discarding its past, but in rejuvenating it, thus serving as a bridge between India's ancient values and modern democratic aspirations. Highlighting Pandit Malaviya's commitment to scientific and technological education, the Vice President said this reflected his ability to harmonise the best elements of ancient and modern civilizations. Recalling Mahamana Malaviya's faith in education as the strongest instrument of national awakening during colonial rule, the Vice President said the establishment of Banaras Hindu University stands as a living testament to his belief that modern education and Indian culture must grow together. The Vice President observed that Mahamana Malaviya's vision of a strong, self-reliant, and enlightened India resonates deeply with contemporary initiatives such as Aatmanirbhar Bharat, Make in India, and the mission of Viksit Bharat by 2047, championed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is carrying forward Pandit Malaviya's enduring legacy. He further said that Mahamana Malaviya's emphasis on inclusive, value-based, and skill-oriented education finds strong reflection in the National Education Policy 2020. Describing Mahamana Vangmay as more than a collection of writings, the Vice President said it represents the intellectual DNA of India's freedom struggle and a blueprint for the country's cultural renaissance. He congratulated the Mahamana Malaviya Mission and the Publications Division

Amit Shah addresses Abhyudaya Madhya Pradesh Growth Summit in Gwalior

New Delhi (PIB) : Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation Amit Shah today addressed the Abhyudaya Madhya Pradesh Growth Summit in Gwalior as the chief guest. On this occasion, Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav, Union Minister for Communications Jyotiraditya Scindia, and several other dignitaries were present. Union Home Minister Amit Shah said that the beginning of structured industrial enclaves in the country started from Gujarat, when Narendra Modi ji was the Chief Minister of the state. He said that Modi ji scientifically initiated the organization of the industrial summit named Vibrant Gujarat, which was highly successful and also brought investments to Gujarat. Madhya Pradesh Chief Minister Dr. Mohan Yadav has initiated regional investment enclaves for the balanced development of the state. He said that investment-related activities have now begun in all regions of Madhya Pradesh, which will prove beneficial for other states as well. Shah said that the investment of ₹2 lakh crore happening today may seem small at first glance, but for any one region, it is a very significant achievement. For the people of that region, this investment is extremely important. If there is no balanced development in the state, the state cannot progress, because immense possibilities are hidden in every region. He said that cotton has been a very old produce of the farmers in the Malwa and Chambal regions, but due to not getting proper prices, cotton cultivation has greatly reduced. Now, through the PM MITRA Park, cotton has once again become a profitable crop. Amit Shah said that the biggest specialty of Madhya Pradesh is its geographical location. Half of India can be supplied from here at very low transportation costs, but its optimum utilization can happen only when industries are established symmetrically in Madhya Pradesh. Industries should be set up in districts bordering southern states, in areas adjacent to Delhi such as Gwalior, and also in regions bordering the west such as Dhar and Jabua—only then will the benefit of the geographical location be fully realized. He said that Madhya Pradesh's regional investment summits have laid the foundation for the all-round development of the state. Union Home Minister Amit Shah said that in Gwalior, the inauguration and foundation stone laying of 14 development works pertaining to Gwalior took place. Leaders of the opposition party turned Madhya Pradesh into a BI-MARU state; Shivraj Singh ji removed that tag, and now Mohan Yadav ji is taking the state forward with new energy. As a result, Madhya Pradesh will definitely become a developed state. He said that excellent highways have been built in Madhya Pradesh, efforts have been made to supply water from Narmadadriver to as many areas as possible, the irrigated area has increased by 17 percent, and by surpassing Punjab and Haryana, Madhya Pradesh has successfully won the 'Krishi Karmman' Award consecutively seven times. He said that it is our party that has truly put Madhya Pradesh on the path of development. Amit Shah said that to completely capitalize on Madhya Pradesh's geographical location, a Multi-Modal Logistics Park is being developed in Indore, which is attracting companies engaged in production from across the country to set up their warehouses or hubs there. He said that at one time Madhya Pradesh was considered a negative state in the power sector, but today Madhya Pradesh has surplus electricity. In the field of cleanliness as well, Madhya Pradesh has left other states behind. Madhya Pradesh has the lowest operational cost for metro services among the states. The state has also performed well in the startup sector. Industries and startups have been established in every sector, including agriculture, food processing, minerals, mineral-based industries, renewable energy, logistics, textiles, pharmaceuticals, IT, and tourism. Approximately 50 percent of these startups are being run by women, which is an excellent example of women empowerment. He said that Madhya Pradesh has set a record by establishing 4 lakh 57 thousand new MSME units in just one year. As a result, in the matter of medium, small, and cottage industries, Madhya Pradesh is on its way to becoming a hub for the entire country, and through startups and innovation, it is poised to reach new heights. Amit Shah said that the PM MITRA Park has been built on the 5F vision, which also works to ensure farmers receive fair prices for their produce. It includes Farm to Fibre, Fibre to Factory, Factory to Fashion, and Fashion to Foreign—meaning the PM MITRA Park has arrangements right up to export. He said that the largest PM MITRA Park is in Madhya Pradesh, which will benefit the farmers. Shah said that the textile and tourism industries are the sectors that generate the most employment, and infrastructure suitable for both these sectors is being developed in Madhya Pradesh. He said that Madhya Pradesh has also performed very well in Ease of Doing Business. Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation Amit Shah said that under the leadership of PM Modi, foundations are being laid in many new sectors, which will give the country the opportunity to become a global leader in these new areas in the coming days. He said that our foreign exchange reserves have crossed the record level of 700 billion dollars. We have made a late but impactful entry into the semi-conductor industry, and very soon we will not only become self-reliant in this sector but will also begin its exports. He said that through Digital India, we have achieved the fastest growth in the shortest time. He said that when Modi ji became Prime Minister, the number of internet users in the country was only 7 crore, which increased to 101 crore in September 2025. Now the number of broadband users has also reached approximately 99 crore. 4G connectivity is available in 95 percent parts of the country, and preparations are underway to provide 5G connectivity in 99 percent of the area. He said that through UPI, we have taken a giant leap in the field of digital transactions and FinTech. In the year 2024-25, nearly 50 percent of global digital transactions took place in India. In August 2025, by conducting 2000 crore digital transactions worth about Rs. 25 lakh crore, we have left the world behind. During the fight against Covid-19, a very large infrastructure was built for vaccine manufacturing and R&D. Today, 60 percent of the world's vaccines are manufactured in India. We have performed well in the manufacturing sector; India is today the world's second-largest mobile phone producer. Defence exports and defence manufacturing have also been restructured. In Ease of Doing Business, India was ranked 142nd in 2014; today it stands at 63rd position. The Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code has created a structured economic system. Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation Amit Shah said that under the leadership of PM Modi, efforts have been made to make India first in the world in the field of infrastructure. During the previous government, there were 90 thousand kilometers of highways; now, 1.5 lakh kilometers of new highways have been built. Four-lane highways were previously 18,000 kilometers, now they have become 46,000 kilometers. Rural roads were previously 3 lakh 81 thousand kilometers, now they have become 7 lakh 84 thousand kilometers. Earlier, there were 74 airports; now their number is 163. Previously, there was not a single Vande Bharat train; now 164 Vande Bharat trains are being built, and the manufacturing of Vande Bharat train parts has also begun in Madhya Pradesh. Earlier, there was not a single Amrit Bharat station; now 1,337 have been built. Railway electrification was only 22 thousand kilometers; now it is 68 thousand kilometers. Metro-connected cities were previously five; now their number is 23. Earlier, optical fiber was available in only 100 gram panchayats; now it has reached 2 lakh 14 thousand panchayats. Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation told the youth of Madhya Pradesh and the industrialists who have come to invest in the state that the geographical location of Madhya Pradesh is so attractive that crops can be grown by sowing seeds anywhere, but the land of Madhya Pradesh is so fertile that by sowing rupees here, one can earn crores. He said that when the state develops with regional balance, the greatest benefit goes to the people of the state and the industrial sector, because industries based on regional specialties are sustainable and, hence, successful. On the 101st birth anniversary of former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee, paying tribute to him, Union Home Minister Amit Shah said that today the entire country is celebrating the birth anniversary of a great man of the era, a visionary, and the one who laid the foundation of modern India's infrastructure—Atal ji. Shah said that he is fortunate that today he is standing on the land where Atal ji spent his early life. Home Minister said that he is present on the very land whose soil shaped the young Atal into Atal Bihari. Atal ji not only helped this country preserve its cultural heritage but also dedicated his entire life to awakening the 'self' of the nation and advancing the journey from Swaraj (self-rule) to Susashan (good governance). Amit Shah said that when English dominated everything, Atal ji delivered a speech in Hindi at the United Nations, thereby winning the hearts of every Indian. Shah said that the entire state of Madhya Pradesh is filled with tribal areas. Before Atal ji became Prime Minister, there was no separate department for tribals at the Centre, but during his tenure, the Government of India established the Ministry of Tribal Affairs, marking the beginning of a new journey for tribal welfare. When Atal ji became Prime Minister, investment in the country's infrastructure was not considered a means to win elections. He said that Atal ji put an end to the outdated mindset that "elections are not won through investments in infrastructure," and implemented the Golden Quadrilateral project. Under this scheme, six major highways connecting the country from all directions were constructed, paving the way for India to advance on the path of robust infrastructure.

Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation said that it was Atal ji who established before the entire world the principle that a nation can become a nuclear power even for the sake of peace. Despite opposition from around the world, he made India a nuclear-armed nation. The Home Minister said that when infiltrators entered during the Kargil conflict, there was immense pressure from the international community for India to go to global forums and negotiate with Pakistan. However, Atal ji firmly declared that we had already made efforts for peace, we had been deceived, and now there could be no talks with Pakistan until every single infiltrator was driven out of Indian territory. He said that the victory in Kargil is a testament to Atal ji's resolute and determined leadership. Shah said that Atal ji was a great orator, a sensitive poet, and a leader dedicated to the welfare of the people. He was regarded throughout his life as an "Ajataashatru" (one without enemies), and in the world of politics, to live and die without making enemies is a very great achievement. Even Atal ji's opponents never spoke ill of him. Union Home Minister and Minister of Cooperation said that today is also the birth anniversary of Mahamana Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya ji. He said that Pandit Malaviya ji, from the establishment of Banaras Hindu University to his role as a close associate of Gandhiji, and later through the creation of the Hindu Mahasabha, fearlessly propagated Hindu thought—which is the foundational idea of this country—across the nation without any hesitation. In later years, the same Banaras Hindu University produced many leaders for the country who advanced this very thought. The Home Minister said that today is also the death anniversary of Bharat Ratna C. Rajagopalachari. He paid tribute to C. Rajagopalachari as well.

Protest in front of the Suryapet District Collectorate on December 27

(Capital Information)

Suryapet : The Telangana state government, two years after the expiry of journalists' accreditations, has introduced Government Order 252 under the guise of new rules, which is designed to trample on the rights of journalists. TUWJ (H-143) strongly condemns the issuance of this GO which is unjust to journalists.

The new GO, which replaces the previous system where desk journalists and field journalists all had the same accreditation cards, now introduces separate media cards for desk journalists and accreditation cards for field journalists, thus infringing upon the rights of journalists.

Demanding that the confusing GO. 252, which lacks clarity on the benefits of each card and attempts to reduce the number of accreditation cards compared to the previous system, be immediately amended to be beneficial to journalists, a protest program has been organized under the auspices of TUWJ (H-143) at 10:30 AM on December 27th at the Suryapet District Collector's office.

Therefore, all TUWJ (H-143) union members and all other journalists are requested to participate and make the program a success.

"YSRCP stands with the tribals... TDP is slitting their throats"

(Capital Information)

Nellore : Former Minister and YSR Congress Party President of undivided Nellore district, Dr. Kakani Govardhan Reddy, toured Nallabaleem village in Podalakuru mandal, Sarvepalli constituency.

Kakani expressed his anger, stating that while the YSR Congress Party stands in support of the tribals, the Telugu Desam Party is slitting their throats under its rule. Kakani said that they welcome anyone who does good for the tribals, but they will not tolerate those who harm them.

Kakani stated that even the court has strongly condemned the Telugu Desam Party leaders for slitting the throat of a tribal man named Gopal.Kakani clarified that it was the YSR Congress Party government that established mobile Aadhaar centers for the tribals.Kakani attended the memorial service of the recently deceased Nandi Ramana Reddy.

We have stood by the tribals, especially the Yanadis and Challa Yanadis, in every way during our government.

During the difficult times of the Corona pandemic, we provided financial assistance from our own funds to tribal families without Aadhaar cards, and also distributed essential commodities to help them.

We established mobile Aadhaar centers for tribals without Aadhaar cards, providing them with the opportunity to register for Aadhaar cards right in their tribal colonies.

We have provided house plots to homeless tribal families and sanctioned new houses for them.

We have transparently provided an additional 15,000 rupees to each poor tribal family building a house, in addition to government funds.

The YSR Congress Party

government has focused special attention on supporting tribals through employment guarantee schemes.

We have organized a special drive to enroll and educate children from tribal families in schools.

With Mr. Jagan Mohan

Reddy providing financial assistance of 15,000 rupees through the Amma Vodi program, a scheme unprecedented in the country's history, tribal families have shown a willingness to send their children to school.

We have established Anganwadi schools in tribal colonies and provided better facilities for tribal children.

We have taken strict action against anyone who cheated or committed atrocities against tribals.

We have provided basic infrastructure such as cement roads and side drains in tribal colonies.

It is ridiculous that Somireddy has just woken up and is talking as if he alone has uplifted the tribals and that previous governments did not care about them.

We believe that it is good if anyone does good for the upliftment of tribals, but it is not right to limit oneself to mere words.

Somireddy should show his concern for the welfare of tribals through actions, not just words.

In Sarvepalli, Somireddy should undertake projects that benefit the tribal people, instead of misappropriating percentages from the CSR funds provided by industrialists.

The tribal families of Sarvepalli are criticizing Somireddy for his contradictory words and actions.

Somireddy should prove his integrity by not shielding or protecting those who attacked the tribal man Gopal, but instead bringing them to justice.

After Somireddy orchestrated the attack on the tribals, the tribal families became furious at the mere mention of his name, leaving Somireddy with no option but to start appeasing the tribals.

Everyone rejoices when someone does good for the innocent tribals, but the tribal community will never forgive people like Somireddy, who show love in words but conspire to murder tribals through their actions.

The tribals will never forget the conspiracy Somireddy hatched in Venkatachalam to have their fellow tribal man Gopal murdered.

Whether in power or not, we will not waste time with empty words, and regardless of any hardship or loss, we will always stand by the poor and innocent tribal families in every way.

Gyani Zail Singh : The Symbol of Nationalism

(Er. Prabhat Kishore)
(Capital Information)
Patna : Innumerable people sacrificed their lives for the freedom of India and countless people suffered physical torture. It is difficult to find mention of all these in the pages of our history. All the letters used in the creation of our history and all the sentences that have been coined, all sing the immortal saga of these sacrifices. But there are some letters of the great writings which speak automatically. The name of Dhartiputra and Kranti Purush Giani Zail Singh is hidden in the womb of these spontaneous writings.
Gyani Zail Singh the youngest of five siblings, was born on 5 May 1916 in the house of a poor cultivator and artisan Mr. Kishan Singh in the village of Sandhwan near Kot Kapura in Faridkot, a small princely state of ancient Saptasindhu and modern Punjab. His mother Smt. Ind Kaur died in her childhood and she was brought up by Aunt Smt. Daya Kaur. He was not called Zail Singh in his childhood, but Jarnail Singh. Jarnail Singh received immense love and protection from brothers Mr. Jagir Singh and Mr. Veer Singh and sister Mrs. Jagir Kaur. Shri Kishan Singh, who had a religious aptitude, had a heartfelt desire that his son Jarnail Singh should propagate the Guruvani. That is why he got the boy Jarnail Singh out of school and got him to study Hindi and Punjabi in depth under his guidance.

After memorizing the Guru Granth Sahib, Jarnail Singh formed a religious congregation and used to recite its couplets on the harmonium in a very charming manner. He got admission in Shaheed Sikh Missionary College, Amritsar, despite not having a matriculation degree, due to the quality of stimulating the public with his speech. After the completion of this course, he was awarded the title of "Gyani" which remained with his name for life. Meanwhile, at a very young age, he was married to Pradhan Kaur, who has a son, Mr. Joginder Singh and three daughters, respectively, Joginder Kaur, Manjit Kaur and Dr. Gurdeep Kaur.
Inspired by the sacrifices of Bhagat Singh, Sukhdev and Rajguru and other freedom fighters, Jarnail Singh started his political career as an Akali Dal worker. At the age of just 18, he became the General Secretary of the Faridkot Akali Dal and remained in this position for five years (till 1933). In 1938, he led the Prajamandal movement against the princely state of Faridkot. In the same year he opened a Congress branch in Faridkot, which the Maharaja accepted as a challenge and imprisoned him for five years. On being asked by the jailer, he revealed his name as "Zail Singh" (Lion of the jail). Since then he became popular as Zail Singh instead of Jarnail Singh. He was severely tortured in the prison, but he showed his courage. He studied the holy texts like Ramayan, Gita, Veds, Purans, Upanishads etc. in his prison.

After his release from imprisonment in 1943, due to repeated harassment by the Maharaja's employees, Zail Singh left Faridkot and started public awareness by joining the freedom movement. During the flag movement in 1946, he returned to Faridkot, where there was a lot of enthusiasm among the public towards hoisting the tricolor flag. But the fear of the Maharaja's terror was also at its climax. Then Jawaharlal Nehru himself went to Faridkot and hoisted the flag. After some time in 1947, when Rajal Maler was in Kotla, Giani Zail Singh, along with some tenacious workers, made a historic explosion by establishing a parallel government in Faridkot. The king lodged a strong objection to the then Home Minister Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, who was working to integrate the princely states into the Indian Union, and again imprisoned him, calling it a rebellion.
The politics of Punjab in independent India would be incomplete without mentioning Gyaniji. After the partition of India, the new state "Patiala and East Punjab Provincial Union" was formed by joining the small princely states of East Punjab, Patiala, Jind, Nabha, Kapurthala and Faridkot, whose total area was 10090 square miles and population was 3424060. In 1949, Zail Singh was made the Revenue Minister in the non-party government formed under the Chief Ministership of Gyan Singh Rarewala in this state. After the elections in 1951, he took over as Agriculture Minister in the Congress Government formed on 23 May 1951. He took full advantage of working with an accomplished Chief Minister like Shri Pratap Singh Kairo. He was a member of the Rajya Sabha from 1956 to 1962.

In 1970, when Sikh separatism took hold, the Congress Party made Gyani Zail Singh the Chief Minister of Punjab in 1972. Shiromani Akali Dal, the traditional political party of Sikhs, was given a blow by their voters and out of the total 104 seats in the state, Congress got 66 seats and its ally Communist Party got 10 seats. The Akali Dal was reduced to just 24 seats. He dominated the politics of Punjab from 1972 to 1977. In 1980, he was elected to the Lok Sabha from Hoshiarpur constituency and on 14 January 1980 took over as the most important Home Minister in the Union Cabinet headed by Smt. Indira Gandhi. It is said that during his tenure as Home Minister, he encouraged Sant Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale at the behest of Indira Gandhi as a strategy to harm the Akali Dal, which later proved to be a scourge for the peace of Punjab.

After the completion of the tenure of Shri Neelam Sanjiv Reddy after about two and a half years, on July 15, 1982, the Congress Party declared Gyani Zail Singh as the candidate for the post of the seventh President of India. The election was one-sided and in this he also got the support of opponents like the Communist Party in Bengal and the Akali Dal in Punjab in the name of being a Sikh. On 25 July 1982, Gyani Zail Singh took the oath of the highest constitutional post. During this, he also made his place by saying light things like "If my leader had said I should pick up a broom and be a sweeper, I would have done that. She chose me to be President". As President, he gave the message of love, brotherhood, equality of all religions, unity, honesty and devotion to the people of India but also to the whole world.

Gyani Zail Singh, a multifaceted personality, successfully faced every situation and got victory. Taking special interest in the social upliftment of backward classes, dalits, poor and women, he started many development schemes for their welfare. Keeping the unity and integrity of the nation as supreme, he devoted himself completely. He was not even aware of 'Operation Blue Star', which was started in 1984 to free the historic Golden Temple in Amritsar from the anti-national Sikh militants, although Prime Minister Indira Gandhi spoke to him for an hour a day before the operation. After 4 days of military action, Gyani Zail Singh visited the Golden Temple. Not only was he strongly condemned by the extremist Sikh leaders, but a desperate attempt was made to declare him a devout and a scumbag. But the sense of religious duty could not deter him and without caring about all these religious threats, he followed the path of the Sikh Gurus and always considered the national interest as paramount.
After the assassination of Indira Gandhi by the bodyguards enraged by the above action, in the capacity of President, he fulfilled the duty of paying his debt by appointing her son Rajiv Gandhi as the Prime Minister. Gyaniji's academic life may not have been able to embrace universities, colleges and big educational institutions, but he had an unmatched love for literature, music and art. He did not speak fluent English, but while showing his deep reverence for Hindi, he used to ask the English masters very easily and confidently that when the nations like France, Germany, Soviet Union, Japan, China, Italy etc. can reach the top of the world with their own language, why can't India reach it? Even abroad, by speaking in Hindi, he enhanced the honor and respect of India.

In the most turbulent times of Indian politics, Gyani Zail Singh showed his understanding and administrative skills. He also became controversial and were also called indisputable. On 29 November 1994, during his visit to Takht Sri Keshavgarh Sahib, his car met with an accident near Kiratpur Sahib in Ropar district. He was admitted to the Post Graduate Institute of Medical Sciences, Chandigarh, where he left this illusory world on 25th December 1994 at 7.40 am. A simple living, high thoughts, a nurturer of Indian tradition and a genius, who stirred the public with his sincere and blunt speech, Zail Singh will always be remembered by the Indian masses.

CAQM conducts inspection of PWD roads and re-inspection of DDA road stretches to assess dust mitigation measures

Significant improvement observed on DDA stretches earlier reported with high visible dust, while PWD directed to further intensify on-ground interventions

New Delhi (PIB) : The Commission for Air Quality Management in NCR and Adjoining Areas (CAQM) conducted an inspection drive on 24.12.2025 to assess compliance and effectiveness of corrective measures undertaken by concerned road-maintaining agencies following inspections carried out earlier on 12.12.2025. This was done as part of its continuous monitoring and ongoing enforcement efforts under the statutory framework and provisions of the extant Graded Response Action Plan (GRAP).

The drive focused on assessment of accumulation of visible road dust and on-ground operations of Mechanical Road Sweeping Machines (MRSMs), along with identification of instances of Municipal Solid Waste

(MSW) accumulation, Construction and Demolition (C&D) waste accumulation and cases of open burning.

A total of 15 teams of the Delhi Pollution Control Committee (DPCC) for inspection of 106 road stretches maintained by the Public Works Department (PWD) and 02 teams of the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) for re-inspection of selected 27 road stretches under the jurisdiction of Delhi Development Authority (DDA) were deployed under the directions of the Commission. Geo-tagged and time-stamped photographic documentation was collected and submitted to the Commission as part of the consolidated inspection report.

During the re-inspection of 27 road stretches maintained by DDA, which were earlier reported with high visible dust levels during inspections conducted on 12.12.2025, it was observed that now none of the i.e. 0 stretches fell under the High Dust category on 24.12.2025. Out of these stretches, 07 found with Moderate Dust levels, 19 recorded Low Dust intensity and 01 stretch was found to have No Visible Dust. This indicates a marked improvement in the overall upkeep of these road stretches, reflecting the impact of corrective measures undertaken by the agency following the earlier inspection by CAQM.

Simultaneously, inspection of 106 road stretches maintained by PWD revealed that 09 stretches exhibited High Visible Dust levels, 16 showed Moderate Dust, 37 recorded Low Dust intensity and 44 stretches were found to have No Visible Dust. On certain stretches observed with high dust intensity, accumulation of MSW and C&D waste, as well as instances of open burning, were also reported, indicating the need for strengthened on-ground enforcement and upkeep by the concerned agency.

The Commission observed that while the re-inspection results of DDA-maintained road stretches indicates improvement and responsiveness to the directions issued earlier, the inspection of PWD-maintained road stretches highlight persisting gaps in effective road maintenance and dust control and require immediate and sustained corrective action. The Commission emphasized the need for regular mechanical sweeping, timely lifting and disposal of collected dust and waste, maintenance of road stretches and central verges, effective deployment of water sprinkling and dust-suppression mechanisms, and strict prevention of open burning across all stretches.

The Commission reiterated that targeted inspection and re-inspection exercises under 'Operation Clean Air' will continue to be carried out actively to ensure strict adherence to its Statutory Directions for dust mitigation and prevention of open burning, with the objective of keeping road stretches across Delhi clean and dust-free.

Why 2026 Will Feel Different : A New Turning Point

As we stand at the close of 2025, there's a growing sense — from business leaders, technologists, economists, and everyday people — that 2026 will feel meaningfully different from recent years. This isn't just about the calendar ticking over; it's about tangible shifts across major parts of life.

1. A Transformative Economic and Business Landscape

Experts expect 2026 to build on shifts that began in 2025, with global markets and industries entering new phases of growth, stability, and innovation. The broader economic outlook points to continued investment momentum — especially in AI and technology — that could reshape productivity and competitiveness. Financial markets are predicted to remain polarized but dynamic, with corporate strategies pivoting toward digital transformation and sustainability. In business travel and management, new priorities are emerging as companies seek smarter, more efficient ways to operate in a post-pandemic world. This transition suggests 2026 won't just be "another year" of recovery — it will be one where markets and organizations actively reinvent their future direction.

2. The AI Revolution Grows Up

The hype around artificial intelligence has dominated headlines, but in 2026 we'll likely see a shift from experimentation to real-world integration. At major technology events like CES 2026, AI adoption will look noticeably different: smarter on-device processing, more practical applications, and deeper integration into everyday tools and products. Tech leaders, such as Wipro's CTO, predict AI will be embedded at scale in core business operations, enhancing decision-making and efficiency. This means everyday interactions with technology — from smartphones to business software — will feel more seamless and impactful.

3. Cultural and Global Milestones That Shape the Mood

2026 isn't just another 12 months on the calendar; it includes cultural and global milestones that give the year a distinct social rhythm: The FIFA World Cup 2026 in North America will dominate global sports conversation. For the British royal family, 2026 promises high-profile personal milestones and public engagements. Specialized coverage like The Economist's World Ahead 2026 frames the year as one of significant global trends and transitions. Collectively, these events help define 2026 as a year of participation and shared global experiences, unlike the more fragmented

4. Personal and Psychological Shifts in How People Experience Time

Beyond economics and events, there's a noticeable mindset shift emerging among people heading into 2026:

Increasing emphasis on realistic hope, where goals are balanced with patience and sustained effort. A growing focus on continuity over sudden reinvention — people are thinking more about building than breaking down. This internal shift can make 2026 feel qualitatively different — less about dramatic resets and more about deliberate progress.

5. Everyday Life and Technology Becoming More Integrated

While there won't be flying cars or robot maids, many changes in 2026 will come from subtle improvements in daily life:

Tech will feel more natural and interconnected rather than futuristic in a flashy way. Real-world digital experiences — from devices to ecosystems — will blend more smoothly into routines. AI assistants, smart devices, and seamless interfaces will quietly lower friction in tasks, shifting the perception of daily life. These incremental but cumulative changes are often what people notice most when looking back on a year.

6. Broader Trends You Might Feel, Even if You Don't See Them Daily

Even if not directly visible in daily life, several structural shifts will influence how 2026 feels: Major international trade fairs and business forums will launch new regional economic platforms. Sports, culture, and entertainment calendars are converging toward shared global moments. Discussions about sustainability, urban innovation, and cross-border collaboration are gaining momentum. These global undercurrents add texture and depth to 2026 beyond headline events.

Conclusion: What Makes 2026 Different

In sum, 2026 stands out not because it's numerically new, but because the conditions leading into it have set the stage for real changes:

Economic reshuffling and strategic reinvention.

AI integration moving from experimental to everyday.

Cultural markers that define collective experience.

Shifting personal mindsets toward stability and purpose.

Technology that feels familiar yet smarter.

All these layers help explain why 2026 will feel different — a year that might not be radically unlike any other in history, but one where many small shifts combine to create a fresh sense of momentum and possibility.

Beyond Right Answers: Rethinking How Maths Is Taught in Classrooms

Mathematics is often taught as a sequence of rules and procedures leading to a single correct answer. Yet educators and researchers increasingly argue that this focus on correctness alone limits students' deeper understanding, dampens curiosity, and fails to build genuine mathematical thinkers. Rethinking how maths is taught — moving beyond right answers — can transform classrooms into vibrant spaces of inquiry, reasoning, and real-world sense-making.

The Limitations of "Right-Answer" Teaching

In many classrooms, teaching centres on teachers demonstrating solutions and students copying steps to achieve correct answers. The result? Students learn to memorize procedures rather than understand concepts, and maths becomes a subject of drudgery rather than discovery. Exams and exam-driven curricula that reward speed and accuracy over reasoning compound the problem, leaving little room for exploration, discussion, or connection to real life.

When the pursuit of the right answer overshadows understanding, students may score high on tests but struggle to apply mathematics meaningfully.

Shifting Focus: Thinking With Mathematics

Reimagining maths teaching means emphasising mathematical thinking — the ability to reason, discern patterns, and justify solutions — rather than merely achieving correct outcomes. This approach treats mathematics as a way of thinking, not just a body of procedures.

According to education advocates, classrooms should encourage students to:

Explain their thinking and justify their methods, not just report answers;

Engage with open-ended, rich tasks that have multiple pathways or solutions;

Collaborate and discuss ideas with peers, valuing different strategies and perspectives.

When students justify their reasoning — for example, responding to questions like "Why does your method make sense?" or "How else might we solve this?" — the classroom becomes a community of mathematical thinkers rather than mere answer-recting machines.

Strategies That Encourage Deep Learning

Researchers and educators suggest several practical ways to shift classroom focus:

1. Ask for Justification, Not Just Answers

Encouraging students to explain how and why they arrived at a solution deepens understanding and allows even incorrect answers to become learning opportunities.

2. Use Rich, Low-Floor/High-Ceiling Tasks

Tasks accessible to all learners, yet open to complex exploration, help students engage at their own level and think creatively. Examples include puzzles like the "Four 4s" challenge, where students explore multiple ways to achieve numerical goals.

3. Promote Productive Struggle

Rather than rescuing students immediately, letting them wrestle with problems promotes resilience and deeper conceptual understanding — a process known as productive struggle.

4. Foster Collaborative Dialogue

Student discussions about strategies and reasoning make mathematics visible as a collective activity, not a solitary chase for the right answer.

Equity and Mathematical Identity

Focusing solely on correctness disproportionately benefits students who already feel confident in maths, while reinforcing fixed mindsets and excluding those who struggle. When classrooms value reasoning and multiple solution strategies, all students — including those from diverse linguistic, cultural, or cognitive backgrounds — can feel successful and valued.

This approach also helps dismantle the harmful narrative that people are either "math people" or not. Instead, success becomes associated with curiosity, perseverance, and reasoning — teaching students that thinking mathematically is a skill developed through effort and engagement.

Looking Ahead: A Change in Culture

Moving beyond right answers requires changes in curriculum design, assessment systems, and teacher training. Teachers need support to craft tasks that spark inquiry, facilitate discussions, and assess understanding beyond correctness. Tools such as concrete-pictorial-abstract models, AI-supported personalised learning, and open-ended projects can help realise this vision.

Ultimately, reimagining maths education isn't about doing away with accuracy or skill — it's about cultivating thinkers who can apply mathematics creatively, confidently, and meaningfully in life. When classrooms celebrate reasoning and exploration as much as correct solutions, maths becomes not just a subject to be endured

Will Samantha's Action Work After Glamour And Comedy Failed?

Senior heroine Samantha Ruth Prabhu is at a crucial crossroads in her career, while her personal life is up and running again after her recent second marriage to director Raj Nidumoru. After experimenting across genres in recent years, she failed to taste success. Here's a commentary on that.

With films like Shaakuntalam, Samantha experimented with her glamour dose yet again, but that hasn't worked out like it did during the days of Dookudu and S/o Satya-murthy. Later, she tried to do comedy kind of villainy with the film Subham, but that too didn't leave an impact. These films not only underperformed but sparked debates about her choices.

And now, Samantha is coming up with the film Maa

Samantha tried action through the web series, Citadel: Honey-Bunny, it didn't work out much. Her only respite with action is the one she has done in The Family Man 2. We have to see if this latest saree-clad actioner will give her a break from the string of flops.

Many senior heroines are making a strong comeback these days, while some are struggling. The likes of Nayan-thara and Trisha are in the first gang, while the Kajal Aggarwal and Anushka slip into the second category. We have to see where Samantha would slip into.

Vijay's Jana Nayagan Telugu Release Gets an Unexpected Distribution Call

Jana Nayagan will be the last film of Vijay before he fully moves into politics. The film is directed by H. Vinoth, with Pooja Hegde playing the female lead. The film is slated for release on January 9, 2026, as a Sankranti special.

While the Tamil release has been clear, there has been a lot of discussion around the Telugu version. Jana Nayagan is an official remake of Bhagavanth Kesari and will be released in Telugu as Jan Nayakudu. There were several rumours regarding the Telugu distribution rights. Reports claimed that Naga Vamsi of Sitara Entertainments had backed out, and that Dil Raju might come on board. The makers have now cleared the air.

It has been officially confirmed that PVR Inox Pictures will distribute the film in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana. This has come as a surprise to many, especially with multiple big Telugu releases lined up for the Sankranti season.

The major question now is about screen allocation. With stiff competition during the festival period, the number of single screens and rural reach will be crucial for the film's performance in the Telugu states.

The film also stars Mamitha Baiju, Bobby Deol, Prakash Raj, Priyamani, and Gautham Vasudev Menon in key roles. The film is produced by KVN Productions, with music composed by Anirudh Ravichander.

As Expected, Rajamouli Going Global For Varanasi

Rajamouli is currently collaborating with Mahesh Babu for the biggest project in his career, which has been titled to Varanasi. Rajamouli is once again aiming far beyond domestic boundaries with his upcoming magnum opus Varanasi, starring Mahesh Babu in the lead role.

The film is being planned on an unprecedented global scale, reflecting the director's growing international stature after the worldwide success of RRR. Although the project is still in the production phase, industry buzz suggests that Rajamouli is carefully mapping out a long term strategy to make Varanasi a truly global cinematic event.

Reports indicate that a major portion of the shoot is expected to continue for several months next year, with the makers targeting a grand release in 2027.

What has caught everyone's attention is the strong indication of a simultaneous international release, especially in Japan. Speculation intensified after IMAX Japan hinted at the film's release year, suggesting that the makers are keen on capitalizing on Rajamouli's massive fan base there.

RRR created history in Japan, turning Rajamouli into a recognizable brand among international audiences. Learning from that success, the team behind Varanasi appears determined to strengthen its overseas presence right from day one. With a powerful combination of scale, storytelling, and global appeal, Varanasi is shaping up to be one of the most ambitious Indian films ever made, aiming to elevate Indian cinema further on the world stage.
